

Guidance for recording information:

You should record your concerns as soon as possible and any note should include the following:

- The nature of your concerns
- What is the evidence that led to the concerns
- What the child said (if a discussion has taken place) and;
- What you did or said in response (if a discussion has taken place)

It may be that you have a concern which feels very vague and would simply like to discuss your concerns with a designated Child Protection Co-ordination. If this is the case, please feel free to do so.

Dealing with issues of child abuse can be distressing for the adult to whom the abuse is disclosed or who has concerns. It is extremely important that you talk about your feelings after the event. However, it is also very important to remember that children's details and names must remain confidential and any discussion that you feel you need to undertake does not allow the child to be identified to anyone else.

If you have any queries regarding the information contained in this leaflet, or require further clarification on any points, please do not hesitate to contact Mr. Randell, Head teacher.

Our designated Child Protection Governor is Mrs Kath Roberts-Jones.

The school has a Safeguarding Children Policy, supported by clear procedures. This is available from our Main Admin Office on request.

Safeguarding Children Procedures

As a visitor to our school, either as a workman, volunteer or someone who has come to work with our children in any other capacity, it is important that you are aware of our Safeguarding Children Procedures.

Our Child Protection Co-ordinator is Mr. G. Randell, Headteacher. If you cannot locate him then you should refer any concerns to Mrs T. Howells (Well-being Co-ordinator / deputy DSP) or Mr Neil Jones (Deputy Headteacher / deputy DSP). If your concerns relate to the Headteacher you should contact Mrs Kath Roberts-Jones, Chair of Governors.

There are four categories of abuse:

- Physical abuse
- Sexual abuse
- Emotional abuse
- Neglect

It may be that you are approached by a child who wants to talk to you about something that has or is happening to them. They will tend to choose someone that they trust or know well and this will not always be their own class teacher or unit staff. It may be someone with whom they have formed a good relationship.

There may, however, be occasion when you have cause for concern either about marks or bruises on a child, about something they say or the condition that they are in at school, e.g. hungry or lacking in personal hygiene.

Disclosure of abuse by a child:

If you are approached by a child wanting to talk, you should listen positively and reassure the child. If you can, try and ensure a degree of privacy, but this may not always be possible.

Whilst this can be an alarming situation to find yourself in, it is important not to let the moment pass — for every child that does finally disclose information, evidence shows that they have usually tried up to 12 times before.

Helping the child when abuse is disclosed:

- Be prepared to listen and comfort
- Do not show revulsion or distress, however distasteful the events are
- Stay calm and controlled
- Do not make false promises, i.e. that you will keep the abuse secret or that the police will not be involved
Do not promise confidentiality
- Let the child know at once that it was not his/her fault and keep restating this
- Be aware of your own feelings about abuse and find someone you can share those feelings with once the procedures have been completed
- Reassure the child that they were right to tell, even though the abuse may have happened a long time ago
- Reassure the child that you still care for them and that what they have said does not make you care for them less
- As soon as possible write a first hand account of what was said and done
- Make them aware that their disclosure will be reported only to those who need to know and can help
- Do not question a child; try to limit your involvement to listen.
A child can be interviewed only once.

It is also important to remember that it is not your responsibility to investigate suspected cases of abuse, only to report them to a designated Child Protection Co-ordinator.

If you have concerns about a child's welfare

- It may be that you might have concerns about a child's well-being, but they have not actually said anything to you. If such a situation arises, you should speak to designated Child Protection Co-ordinators
- Abuse or neglect can have a damaging effect on a child's health, education attainment and emotional well-being. If you have worked with a group of children over many weeks, you may see changes in behaviour. Such changes may not necessarily indicate that a child is suffering abuse or neglect. In some cases those changes may be symptoms of a hidden disability or undiagnosed medical condition
- It is important you do not feel afraid about passing on their concerns. The information may be a small piece in a bigger jigsaw and help to get a better understanding of a child's predicament. Any concerns, however trivial, should be passed on to a designated Child Protection Co-ordinator
- Once again, you should put your concerns in writing as well as talking to the designated Child Protection Co-ordinator
